Source: National Capital Region Police Office

The police acknowledge 965 drug-related killings in Manila, Quezon City and Caloocan between July 2016 and December 2017. This figure includes 764 drug suspects killed by police officers during police operations and 201 homicides by unknown assailants that the police believe to be drug-related.

The number of drug suspects killed by the police came from the National Capital Region Police Office of the Philippine National Police, which provided aggregate casualty numbers, broken down by police station. These numbers can be found in the spreadsheet below. Note that we included in this tally only the number killed by the police in three police districts during the first 18 months of the antidrug campaign.

The police also provided a spreadsheet containing detailed data on drug-related homicides that took place in 17 municipalities in the capital from July 1, 2016 to March 31, 2019. This spreadsheet came from the police's electronic blotter and included names of fatalities, incident dates, motives of the crime, incident narratives, geolocation, and other information. For privacy reasons, we are not publishing this spreadsheet. From this dataset, we extracted information on 201 homicides in the three police districts that are the focus of this study.

Anonymized information on the 201 homicides can be found in pages 3-6 of this document. Note that the entries refer to incidents and one incident might have one or more casualties.
